

Marcus Hotaling

Marcus Hotaling, Ph.D received his doctorate in counseling psychology in 2001 from the University at Albany. He completed his doctoral internship at the Northampton Veteran's Affairs Hospital/UMass Amherst's Counseling Center. Marcus is currently the Director of the Counseling Center at Union College, but has also worked in a variety of higher educational settings, including the University of Albany's Career Development Center (Asst. Director) and Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute (psychologist and Outreach Coordinator).

Marcus is active in local and national psychological organizations, serving as the Mental Health Chair and Secretary for the American College Health Association in 2009 and 2001 respectively. Additionally, Marcus serves as the secretary for the Capital Region Alcohol and Other Drug Consortium and the mental health chair for the New York State College Health Association.

Areas of interest – BIT/CARE teams, sexual assault response, technological issues within counseling